SUMMARY OF NEWS.

Hongkong has been visited since the great conflagration in 1851, took place Tuesday night. It commenced about 6.30 P.M. in an unoccupied house opposite the Brit. Hotel, Queen's Road West, and gradually extended thence to the Praya and in a westerly direction as far as Mr Riach's timber yard, the whole mass of houses—over two hundred in number-being completely gutted. The fire appears to have been the work of an a roomhad been ignited, and the attention of Inspector da Silva and some soldiers passing at the time was called to it before even the whole of the room in which it originated was consumed. The Envoy of the Tycoon is Koidé Yamate no Kami, Governor of Hakodadi, and newly appointed governor of Foreign Affairs. BORNEO AND ITS RESOURCES.

WE resume our notice of this interesting island. The principal rivers Borneo are the Koti and Banjermassing. in the Dutch possessions; the Rejang, Batan-Lupar, Sarawak, and Bruit in Sarawak; the Bruni and Limbang in Central Borneo; and the Abai, Tampasuk, Kina-Batangan in Ambong and Marcodu. There are hundreds of smaller ones but mostly unfit for navigation, owing to the shallowness of their bars over which the surf breaks freely, and which bars seldom have more than nine feet of water on them at neap tides; some are fresh like the Kimanis and Tawaran, the water of which is drinkable at all stages of tide two fathoms inside of the breakers, and it is asserted that casks have been filled with water from the Tawarau, pure and unmixed, half a mile at sea. Others are Messrs Quok Acheong and Woheng are we for which certainly the necessity of finishing merely salt water creeks, stretching for scores of miles into the country and lined with impenetrable mangrove jungle. There are no good barbors in Sarawak or the Dutch possessions, but Victoria Harbor in Labuan, and Gaya Bay in the Kingdom proper, are excellent harbors, with good anchorage, plenty of water, and well sheltered from either monsoon. It has been estimated that Gaya Bay would accommodate the whole English navy with a safe and secure anchorage, Port Raffles, past week. In the one a person named concentrating his forces. Ogasawari-Iki- or Coal point (as it is generally termed). at Labuan, though affording ample shelter from the s,w. monsoon, lies entirely open to the N.E. and is very unsafe during the prevalence of this latter monsoon. Borneo is mountainous throughout its entire length, though more so from Barram point to the extreme northern point, but the magnificent mountain of Kina-Balu, 13,600 feet high, towers proudly above all the rest as Brobdignagian chieftain lords it over Lillipptian serfs. This noble peak is distinctly visible in a clear day over 60 miles at sea, possesses rich stores minerals in its mighty womb, and is destined at no very distant day, to contain the favorite shrine of Hygeia, to which all her eager votaries from the lower parts of the China Sea will hasten to pay their the supply of the Macao trade are carried humble adoration. Nothing but the unconquerable indolence of the natives prevents this Country from being the centre of a traffic, as far superior to that of China and Singapor as a monatain surpasses in magnitude s mole bill. The decline of Northern Borneo as a great commercial emporium. dates from the expulsion and extermination of the Chinese, who once possessed and civilised nearly the whole of the Northern sea Coast, both on the Eastern and Western shores. Their own arrogance and presumption led to their overthrow, and it is estimated that upwards of 60,000 perished under the creeses and parangs of the warlike Malays, whom they had endeavored to brow beat and oppress. Traces of their occupation are every where found, and even the language and religion linger among the inhabitants of the interior. The Chinese can only exist out of China in peace, as a servile race: if allowed any ascendancy, or even equality with other races, murder and rapine at once assume the sway. Witness the districts of their own country, where the yoke of the Tartar conqueror is in the least degree lightened or becomes weakened, the Taeping or Nienfei springs into existence at once. Witness the Chinese insurrection at Sarawak, in 1857, when Rajah Brooke was reduced to such extremity, as to be compelled to swim a small river to save his life; and nothing but the opportune arrival of the Lorneo Company's steamer saved the European population from extermination; nor was it until upwards of 7,000 Chinese had fallen under the spears and sumpitans of his gallant Dyak warriors, that he was enabled to recover his authority and drive the remnant of the rebels across the frontier into Sambas. Witness Hongkong, where since the introduction of Exeter Hall ethics, and the decoration of the seats of Justice with festoons of red tape, the public streets at certain points are tabooed to the European unprovided with a revolver, and where pirates' craft are fitted out, with the scarcely-concealed intention of preying upon the peaceful trader leaving the harber, and returning expose, unchecked, the fruits of their raid publicly in the bazaars for sale, still stained with the blood of their murdered victims. THE SPARK AND THE COOLIE TRADE.

A FEW days since our attention was directed to certain slanderous Chinese placards | dance and wages ranged from 8 to 10 dolwhich have been extensively posted Canton, and have also been distributed in Hongkong. They relate to alleged kidnapping on board the Steamer Spark, now running between Hongkong and Macao, We deemed it our duty to communicate with the owners of that vessel, and at their request publish below the translations with which we have been furnished. They are thoroughly convinced of the necessity of dealing openly with accusations such as these placards contain, and it will therefore be well to state some circumstances in connection with the case. It is undoubtedly true that coolies for those vessels can shut their eyes, but so long as they come as bona fide passengers say twenty five, in charge of a crimp, make coolie?" Their presence on board had, found so detrimental to the interests of The an additional charge of one dollar per head grant," Somewhat later the charge was raised to two dollars, and the captain of the vessel was instructed to refuse carrying them when practicable, the fare for ruined, is not known. If all villages would ordinary passengers at first being cents, subsequently raised to 60 cents. The owners were remonstrated with by some of the Macao coolie brokers at exorbitant rates." Since the issue of the raise the rate until it reaches a prohibitive amount.

We are authorized to state most positively that in no way whatever have the owners of the Spark, been personally interested in the coolie traffic. They have never transferred coolies direct to any ship, or in any way afforded facilities other than those open to all in the way of procuring landing boats, &c. So long as the vessel is employed in passenger traffic so long must any, able to pay, be admitted on board. and in numerous cases "emigrants" are not identified as such, but pass for the ordinary rates. On some occasions coolies who have turned out to have been intended for the barracoons have been unable to pay their passage money and have been prevented from leaving the ship, it being the rule to carry back to Canton any who attempt to defraud the steamer. They have been liberated by coolie brokers, and on its being discovered that they are intended 'emigrants' a heavy fare has been exacted. This of course, in the eyes of the Chinese, seems to make the steamer an accomplice in the practice. But it should be stated that any cooliesrefusing to leave the steamer of their ownfree will are carried bank to Cauton.

The foregoing information has been freely given to us by the owners of the Spark in order that the public may judge of the merits of the case. We can only suggest that in order to stop the passage of such coolies in future, they be charged, (when identified as such) at a rate absolutely prohibitive. This we have reason to believe it is now intended to do.

PLACARD No. 1. On Monday and Wednesday of last month (Oct 1st and 3rd?) the steamer Spark running from Canton to Macao, entered upon an unrighteous course of conduct. The whole boat-load of passengers were forcibly compelled to become "pigs." Having come to anchor outside at the "Chicken's Neck" 29 191, they were transferred to a (coolie) ship. This is a veritable fact and not a vague rumor. Hereafter all persons taking passage by the Spark for Macao are earnestly besought to be careful, and not allow themselves to become victims of her ruinous practice. A hastily written but earnest statement.

PLACARD No. 2.

"If he can bear to do this, (what may e not bear to do?) "At present the foreign Devils at Macao are engaged in traffic in men, and that too at remarkably high rates. This is called "selling Pigs." There are several hundred coolie establishments at Macao, and this year they are desirous of purchasing 150,000 men—so it is said. They have therefore sent out several hundred "Crimps" to; go into all quarters, and make purchases, offering 50 dollars per The purpose is to sell them away to foreign countries, to be engaged in subduing desert wastes by farming, and general 1866. two meals of coarse rice per day, without a single cash of remuneration. Thus pinioned they cannot fly away, and there is no day for return to their native land. little reflection shows that, if this business was carried on openly and above board, no one would be willing to go. Hence a hundred plans have been devised to delude men; and the more these schemes have increased in number, the more deceptive has become their character and the more various their forms—their changes and transformations being without limit, such an extent have these horrible machinations been carried, that friend betrays friend, a relative his kinsman, and a man carry out these nefarious designs. These kidnappers at first approached their victims, by stating that at Macao work and employment were to be found in abunlars per month. A large number of persons, destitute of means and out of employment, having heard this hastened thither, each striving to be first and fearing to be last. But who knows that, having once entered the barracoons, they will ever come out from thence during their lives? They never return to their Father and mother and wife and children look for them until their eyes are pierced through with watching, and, not knowing whether they be dead or are still alive, their hearts are, as it were, thrust through with a sword. The anxiety and toil of the parents can never be repaid by the filial attendance of the son; and on whom shall the wife and the children of tender years depend ? At present when the Passage Boats arrive at Macao, the foreigners in many tens of small boats, each of which hoists a small white flag, surround them and receive the "pigs." Hence it is known that each establishment must send out many "crimps." who kidnap men on all'sides. But the greatest outrages are perpetrated by the steamer Spurk. As 25 cts. fare is only taken from each passenger, many poor people, seeing that the passage is so cheap, go to ployment. The people on the steamer, observing the mean habiliments of these persons, drive them into the hold and afterwards make way with them as "pigs." The last ten and more trips have all been of this character. Of this there are numbers of eve-witnesses. If I in this falsely accuse the steamer, may I be doubly hated of Heaven. How many men have thus been immediately arrest every known kidnapper, and hand him over to the mandarins for condign punishment, ruin would be diverted from ten thousand times ten thousand

THE KIDNAPPING CASE. THE rules of evidence upon which public opinion proceeds are defective, if tried by a legal test, and its decisions therefore are occasionally capricious and injust; but we do not anticipate that any hesitation will be felt in accepting as very valid testimony the brief description given by Mr Pollard, Q.C. of the mechanism and organization of the traffic in coolies, as carried on here in the name of the Dutch government. The learned counsel is remarkably clear upon the point. Of the prisoners committed for trial on a charge equivalent to that of kidnapping, one he says " has entered into a contract with the Dutch government,"-a contract for the recruitment of emigrants to Dutch colonies. It is only fair to state Mr Pollard's opinion that "there is not the slightest evidence to convict " this contractor; but as he also says, "this is a matter in which the law of evidence must be applied with strictness," and there will be an opportunity afforded at the next Criminal Sessions of the Supreme Court of ascertaining the worth of the learned counsel's opinion on "the matter." . In the meantime we may remark, he describes the second prisoner as being a "sub contractor," under this contract, and admits that there is a prima facie case against him. Now the connection of the contractor-in-chief with his "sub," in the cases upon which committal has been obtained, was indisputably established, for, (says the learned counsel) "he went to the house of the second prisoner, who is a sub-contractorhe went in his chair [so precise was Mr Pollard in his description, to know if any more emigrants had come in during the week, and if there were any ready to be shipped." Whether the "strict law of evidence" will prevail at the criminal trial is a question that need not be asked, but that the magistrate was right, under the circumstances correctly detailed by the learned counsel for the defence, in committing the contractor-in-chief for trial, is unquestionable. There is another point of connection with the case, on the part of the Chinese Dutch coolie contractor, that justified the magistrate in committing him for trial. When he wasencountered by Mr Tonnachy in the house where the coolies were (as the prosecution alleges) confined, he gave that gentleman a paper printed in the Chinese language, of which the following has been published as a correct translation :--"Bearers of these have been engaged to collect Emigrants for the Kwong-t'ung-fat Company at Hongkong. The Emigrants are to be shipped at Hongkong under the supervision of the local Government and the Netherlands Consul, and to proceed to Dutch Guiana, where they will be well treated. Having formerly been living in the Sunon and Kweishin Districts, I ceitify this to be the truth. W. LOBSCHEID. Victoria, Hongkong, 22nd September,

The public will now be able to learn the mode of operations by which coolies are secured for Dutch Gniana. The Dutch ordinance for regulating the introduction of "free labourers" into Surinam we presume governs this emigration to Guiana, and we find it provided in that ordinance that "The recruitment must take place under the immediate control of the Dutch too have been employed as secret agents to | consul at the place where the indenture is

WE learn by the home papers that constant complaints are being made at home of the slovenly way in which telegrams via Kiachts are forwarded from Shanghai. Mr Pollard .- No; these papers do not show that these people intended to infringe anything, for they ask people . to come they like, and tell them they will be wel

His Worship concurred. Mr Pollard asked if His Worship would deal with the cases before him, or did he intend to send them to a jury His Worship said he did; it certainly was a case for a jury. Mr Pollard thought so too. Without ad mitting anything affecting the guilt or innocence of the prisoners, it might be assumed that the woman, Chun a Sun, had been detained against her will. But it did not follow that the prisoners had been guilty of any offence. This was a matter in which the law of evidence must be applied with strictness. Therefore if His Worship made up his mind to send the case to a jury, he (the learned counsel) should not now call any witness for the defence.

His Worship said that leaving his jurisdiction entirely out of the question, he thought it was a case for a jury. The only thing he had a doubt about was the sixth prisoner, the woman.

Mr Pollard said, there was one thing

when he gave Mr Tonnochy the paper. M. Vice-Consul in charge, and two Chisioned rendered, it unsafe to grant the ance; but the first prisoner has entered into a contract with the Dutch Government to supply emigrants under certain regulations, and under examination by the Dutch consul and the harbour master. He in his turn sublets his contract. He went to the house of the second prisoner, who is a sub-contractor - he went in his chair, to know if any more emigrants had come during the previous week, and if Scylla brought into harbour the Captain there were any ready to be shipped; because when there are any ready to be shipr cooly houses in violation of ordinance 6. ped notice must be given to the harboumaster. But when he went to the house has been totally lost in Van Diemen's Mr Tonnochy happened to be there. So straits; only three Japanese saved. The far, he could not know anything of the American whaling barque Pacific was wrecklocking up part of the business.

His Worship. - That will be a point for

Mr Pollard.-I merely mean this: that there is not the slightest evidence to convict him of the charge against him, and if he can give good bail to answer any charge that may be preferred against him, I think it is useless to commit him. The sixth prisoner no jury would convict. I do not dony that there is a prima facie case against the others. No doubt it is a very grave charge, and your Worship must send the case to the jury. The second, third, fourth and fifth prisoners were deposed to by witnesses as having been there when they were confined, if they were confined.

Mr Tonnochy.—The house was barricaed in such a manner as I never saw before. Mr Follard .- Oh, the houses in Gough street, when Howqua brought his 45 wives down, were barricaded, but not so much as that O'Brien could not see that the veran-As to the cognizance of the alleged imprisomment, Langdon and O'Brien had both been at this house, and if the state of the people there had not induced in their minds the idea that there was anything wrong, why should it with other people, with the prisoners, who only took part in a proceeding of which they knew nothing ! His Worship replied .- Just so; but that is a point for the jury. The woman was then discharged, the

TRIP OF THE SALSETTE.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steam-ship Salsette went out of harbour on the 27th on a trial trip round the Island of Lantao. in order to test her new boilers. A numerous company, including His Excellency the Governor and Aide-de-Camp, official and mercantile gentlemen, &c., &c., altogether some sixty in number, had been invited to witness the trial by Mr Dalziel the courteous acting Superintendent at this port. Mr Thes. Green, resident chief Engineer of the company, and Mr John Oliver, Inspector of Machinery, R.N., were also on board to watch the results attained. The Salsette is a screw vessel of 1491

Tons, built in 1858 by Messrs Todd and Macgregor, of Glasgow, who are also the manufacturers of the Engines; her length is 293 10 feet between perpendiculars; breadth 38 feet: and depth of hold 26 feet. Her engines are a pair of direct acting inverted cylinders, of 400 nominal horse power; the length of stroke is 36 inches and the diameter of the cylinder, 7 feet. She carries four boilers, with sixteen furnaces in all, the former pressed to carry 20 lbs. of steam. On her trial trip in England she made 11.9 knots at the measured mile.

The result of the trial was most satisfactory. With full pressure of steam (20lbs.) in all four boilers, she attained a speed of 14 knots or 2,10 knots more than at her trial in England. The engines were making 58 revolutions per minute, the yacuamguage standing at 25 inches, and the indicator shewing that the engines were exerting a power of 1450 horses. As her nominal horse power is only 400, this is an unusually gratifying result. The screw propellor is a three bladed fan 15 ft. 6 in. in diameter with a 27 foot pitch. The experiments as to steering shewed that the Salsette answered her helm well and quickly,

The weather during the trip was all that could be desired, the water being perfectly smooth and a gentle breeze tempering the rays of the somewhat hot sun. The arrangements on board were excellent, a first rate tiffin (or to be fashionable, a dejeuner a la fourchette) having been provided under the direction of Mr. Charles Bristow, the Superintendent Purser of the Company. Noand the officers in their respective departments. At 1.30 P.M., the guests sat down to tiffin. Somewhat to their disappointment, His Excellency the Governor and the Superintendent left the table immediately on its conclusion, thus depriving those present of the intended pleasure of proposing the toasts which were natural to the occasion. One gentleman present, however, being determined to evince his appreciation of the hospitality shewn got upon his legs and being greeted with vociferous applause had some difficulty in making himself heard. Of the speech the words "Gentlemen" "toast" "Superintendent" "speech" and "screech, were all that were audible and he deserves credit for his success in keeping his legs for so long a period. After leaving the cabin for the deck the guests amused themselves in a variety of ways. People who would not be suspected of even playing marbles when children, performed surprising gymnastic feats, and portly gentlemen ignored their own weight and took part in the most active amusements. Altogether a very "jolly" day was spent by all, and men or business doubtless returned with increased pleasure to their work after a few hours of complete holiday, a Many more would have been present had not the expected arrival of the French mail detained them. Before heading for Hongkong, on her return the Salsette was put through a few manœuvres with the object of adjusting her compasses. On reaching the buoy three cheers were given for His Excellency, who immediately proposed three more for Mr Da'ziel, which it is needless to say were most heartily given. A CORRESPONDENT who has already rushe into print about the Hongkong Gas Company, wants now to know "why we did not publish at any rate an abstract of the financial statement issued with the report in which the Directors state they will now very shortly be in a position to pay a dividend from remittances expected from Honykong The writer is in error in ascribing this language to the Directors; it is apparently only an editorial comment by the London and China Express, which also remarksis quite evident from the large amount of receipts for the year, £11,382, that the shareholders will soon enjoy a very handsome dividend." It is to be hope I these anticipations will be realized, but we agree with our correspondent that it would have been a more satisfactory course if an abstract of accounts had accompanied the published report, for then the public might have learnt why the shares are at 10 per cent premium in Hongkong and at a discount in the London market.

THE Contractor Linkee for the detection of whose kidnappers a reward of five hundred dollars was recently offered by the Colonial Government, has at length returned. It appears that his kidnappers took him to a village some fifty miles above Canton, and there detained him until he agreed to pay up a ransom of $4,500, which, hopeless of gaining his freedom in any other way, he eventually consented to do. We trust that the Government/ will move the Chinese at thorities to take steps to discover and punish the kidnappers.

THE circulation of the new coinage is naturally exciting some attention north-. The following suggestion, voinnteered by the Hankow Times, has been anticipated by the Viceroy of Cauton, who has directed that the new dollar, and of course the smaller coins, shall be legal tenders, in payment of Customs' duties that port. Our contemporaries generally would facilitate the circulation of the new coinage among the Chinese were they to make this fact widely known :- The Times says - "The population of China should be in some way induced to accept the new coin into circulation amongst themselves. This can only be effected by the promulgation of Imperial edicts, decreeing the coin to be a legal tender. If the dollar is to be of any service outside the colony, and as a monetary medium both in the open ports and in the interior of China, there is but one way of rendering it so, and that is by enlisting the interest of the Chinese authorities in the general scheme, and obtaining their aid in enforcing the circulation upon their The British Minister at l'exin, if sapported by his colleagues, is the most likely person to bring about this desirable consummation; and we believe that, were he called upon to make the attempt, he would experience little difficulty in persuading the Imperial Government to come to some advantageous acrangement."

neck and neck. But the Taeping happened rather than her own sailing qualities, she owed her success." The Times make a statement to the same effect. The account on the Standari gives an additional explanation of the Taeping's auccess :-

"The Ariel claims to have drawn ahead of her competitor, arriving off Dungeness some hours before her. But again untoward fate intervened. Not a pilot was to be found, and she was kept rolling and tumbling about in the short seas with her maintopsail to the mast; till again the Taeping ranged alongside, and neck and neck they once more started up the river. And here the Ariel had for the last time resumed her place in the van, when the very moon took up the parable against her and held her back on the very threshold of victory. At rived at the dock gates two hours before her pertinacious opponent, she found that time and tide, proverbielly indisposed to wait for any one, were yet bent on making her wait for them It would be two hours before there was water enough for her to enter, and for two hours she lav, an anxious Peri at the mundy gates of the Isle o Dogs Paradise, till Father Thames should give permission for her to enter. But before the two hours were out the lighter-| built and less heavily-ladened Taoping was alongside. Fourteen feet of water would serve her turn, while her bulkier rival required four feet more, and while the Ariel still lay at the very foot, as it were, of the winning-post, the other slipped in and carried off the prize. The difference between the cargoes of the Ariel and Taeping 122.191 lb. This difference cost the Ariel the race, but on the other hand, the larger amount of freight will no doubt more than make good the loss."

There are also some neat and prominent objects in the way of pagodas: two on the opposite side of the river-one on either side of the San Hing River mouth亲近工口 and two on this side, of which the first or lowest, Un Fui Tap 元魁塔 is 243 years old and the other, Shung Hi Tap, 崇禧塔 283. Here we found de lightful retreat from the sun in an open space under some majestic shade trees. from whence a charming view is had of the North Range hills and of the singular bluish black, scraggy nuggets of limestone, called the "seven star precipices" or Rocks The name "seven stars" objects, which seem to be so far removed in a physical aspect from their surround-quite appropriate, one should think, for The origin of the name is however found in the fact that, whilst there are at least twelve of them, only seven can be distinguished from certain points of view, and of the whole number, seven can be grouped into a farm, which resembles to "Dipper" in Ursa Major. The highest of the group is called the "Stone House" Rock 石室巖 from the cavern which pierces it from side to side. Our visit being late in the afternoon and the distance some three miles. we had but a few moments to spend in observation. The glory of the place has evidently departed i. e the glory superadded by idolatrous hands: the majesty of nature still remains. Deserted temples with brazen images, which in some instances give evidence of line workmanship, are found at the foot of the rocks; and high up on the precipitants faces of two of them, semi natural fecesses or shelves are occupied by little coisters for the monks, who are few in min'er and dull of apprehension, but possessed of an amazingly quick eye for To the highest we turned broken silver our steps, and by a most fatiguing scram ble up the romantic path or stair-way which in places is supplied with heavy iron hand-chains on the rock side for the security of life, we reached the crazy purch 190 feet above the level of the plain; the remain distance was estimated at 70 feet which gives a total of 260 feet. The highest of the group will then probably no exceed 3 h feet- the lowest being about The rocks are all worn and seamed may be called marble, although of a poor quantity. In some places they appear boantifully crystaline, sometimes white and again of a flesh color; but the general cast is dark bluish black like the transition limestone of the North river. Their ori gin is doubtless that suggested by M B.ckmore, whose opinion is that they rest limestone deposite, which in the course of time has been washed away on all sides

From our elevated position we had a fine view of the plain stretching from the bill range in the rear to and beyond the river in front. Far down by the entrance to the gap there is a broad stretch of up-land rice to be replaced by wheat in the fall: and, if we could see through to the mouth of the pass, a fine plantation of tea shrubs would be visible on the steep sides of the "Decaved Helve." We are reminded too of the busy women and children, who all along the route have been gathering mulberry leaves, plucking them with a rapidity and carelessness which boded no good for the bushes or sprouts which bear them; they are soon to he cut down, as is done yearly, and next year's leaves will be gathered from new shoots. Chefoo do the 12th inst., have (says the Shanghae Recorder) brought the following

The captain of one of the junks was engaged by Mr Thomas, the interpreter on board a foreign schooner, to pilot her up the river Phieng, and thus became acquainted with that gentleman. Mr Thomas, it will be remembered, came to China some years ago under the auspices of the English Mission, and has lately made a trip along the Corean coast for the purpose of obtaining some knowledge of their language and with the further object of making an exploring tour to the interior. The junk captain took the schooner up the river four tides. By this time an alarm had spread among the natives of the presence in the river of a piratical vessel with a large orew and having armament. The protestations of Mr Thomas, that the vessel was a peaceful trader, were of no avail. Business of all kinds was suspended and the natives began to collect in large numbers on the banks of the river. The friends of the junk Captain, whose vessel it would seem followed the schooner thus far, demurred at his proceeding further up the river, saying that if he were killed, they would not dare to return to Yen-tai. Yielding to their solicitations he left the schooner at a point opposite Little Phiengan-so. Those on board the schooner were determined proceed. The junk then came direct to Chefoo, with the report that a foreign schooner had been wrecked opposite Phieng. an-so; and all on board burnt with the The General Sherman is the only schooner known to have been on the Cocean Coast, and it is believed that it is she who

Our contemporary adds -This additional intelligence respecting the recent outrage by the Coreans upon a foreign schomer. countries the opinion already entertained that the vessel attacked was the General Sherman, as the Junk master bringing the news was acquainted with Mr. Thomas, who had gone as interpreter on board that The nature of the occurrence not much further elucidated; as though the Junk master reported that the cassel been considered as a parate and also that she was wrecked and burnt, the reas it stands, does not state that the Junk master giving fit was present when the attack took place. There can, we tear, be little doubt that the General Sherman was attacked; but the details respecting the way in which the deed was perpetrated require further elucidation, especially the statements concerning the order alleged to have been issued by the king's father.

We are informed that Mr Thomas L. McCready, of the firm of Allen & Co., has proceeded to Chefoo in the Nanzing with a view of endeavouring if possible to obtain ntelligence respecting the people on board the General Sherman. He will go on, it recessary, from Chefoo to Tientsin and thence to Peking; where he will obtain a passport from the United States' Legation and will then continue his journey to Moukden, where he will endeavour to procure the assistance of the Chinese authorities in tracing out the facts connected with this matter. It is not altogether without the bounds of possibility that the Coreans may have taken the foreigners to the barrier and have handed them over to the Chinese. Should such be the case, there may be some difficulty in finding them out, as the Mandarins at Monkden have upon more occasions than one thrown foreigners into gaol to avoid the expense of sending them on to their proper authorities. It is not very long ago since Mr Meadows, the British Consul at Newchwang, was instrumental in obtaining the release of four Russians, who had been for a lengthened time in prison at that place, and the attempt made to induce Captain McCaslin and the crew of the Str. Surprise to take up their quarters in a gaol, would probably have resulted in their being similarly detained, had they allowed themselves to get into the Mandarins' power to that extent. The plan contemplated by Mr Mc ready of going to the barrier in company with Chinese Officials will probably prove the most satisfactory that could be devised; as the Coreans are familiar with the Chinese authorities and their presence will secure the matter receiving attention at head quarters

AN OPIUM ROBBERY. D. J. Ezra. a wealthy Jewish merchant shipped as usual a large quantity of Opium to China. A portion of his shipments was sent forward in the Reiver, and the remainder in the Lightning. On reaching Hongkong, it was found that five of the chests sent by the Reiver, contained mud instead of Opium. Three of the chests landed from the Lightning were also found to contain mud, and two more were under suspicion. There was a disinclination manifested to receive these chests, but the way, a line of conduct which materially simplified matters. Two of the chests taken by the Lightning, were reshipped to Calcutta, and were of course duly surveyed. and duly found to contain a valuable Petty thefts of the precious drug are by no means uncommon. A robbery embracing the contents of ten boxes is quite another matter. The more especially, as the thieves were cool enough to abstract some of both kinds of the drug, and to divide their favors equally between the two steamers. From the North-China Daily News. A few months ago a writer in the C. ina Mail commenced the publication of a series of Antes for Tourists in the North of China, and these have now been published in a condensed form with the name of the writer, Mr. N. B. Dennys. He is well qualinfied for the work he has undertaken, and his opione as to the best modes of travelling as well as his casual remarks upon men and manners in the north, are worthy of attention. We can discover no omission in the list given, all the precautions necessary to secure comfort en route and at the various inna being very minutely set forth. From stage to stage of the journey, the traveller will find that his author has preceded him, and that the discomforts from which he suffers have been suffered before by one at least who has set himself to devise means whereby they may be overcome We commend to those interested in topographical researches the description given of Peking, while those whose ideas regarding the history of Peking and the many vicissitudes through which it has passed since its first establishment are misty and confused, will do well to run over the condensed account given at page 25. There are plenty of sights in and around the city, some visible and many more invisible, and Mr. Denny's description of the cities and their points of interest is full and carefully giv n. As to its correctness we are unfortunately unable to judge. The name of the back " Notes for Tourists in the North of China" is rather ambitious, as the Author confines himself to Peking and two routes from that city to Kalgon, about 130 miles distant, but for a visit to Peking the information will prove very acceptable to a traveller especially if I ving at an inn.

From the Shanghae Recorder. The present mail brings us a copy of the useful little guide book for Tourists in the North of China, which has recently been published by Mr N. B. I ennys, and we we are glad to be able to express a favorable opinion upon its serviceableness. The book, though it only pretends to be a guide to travellers, contains much useful and interesting information; and may be looked upon in the light of the "Murray" for Tourists in Northern Provices of the Celestial Empire.

From Trübner's American and Criental Literary Record.

The first Chinese " Murray " that has been given to the world appears in the shape of a neat pamphlet of some 70 pages, entitled, " Notes for Tourists in the North of China, by N. B. Henny's." I he. pamphlet contains, in fact, very full descriptions of Tientsing, Pekin, and the circumjacent country, with valuable notes on the productions, objects of curiosity, public buildings, etc. of the Capital of China, besides itineraries from Pekin to the Mongolian frontier and the passes of the Great Wall. His work is ilustrated with several useful plans of Pekin, and of he route between that city and the sea.
